DO YOU WANT PEACE WITH WILSON, OR WAR WITH HUGHES?

There is only one choice as against peace, and that is war. Some of the supporters of that (the Republican) party, a very great body of the supporters of that party, outspokenly declare that they want war; so that the certain prospect of the success of the Republican Party is that we shall be drawn in one form or other into the embroilments of the European war, and that to the south of us the force of the United States will be used to produce in Mexico the kind of law and order which some American investors in Mexico consider most to their advantage. * * *

There is a more serious aspect even than that. There is an immediate result of this thing, my fellow citizens. From this time until the 7th of November it is going to be practically impossible for the present Administration to handle any critical matter concerning our foreign relations, because all foreign statesmen are waiting to see which way the election goes; and in the meantime they know that settlements will be inconclusive.—From President Wilson's address to the Young Men's Democratic League at Shadow Lawn, Sept. 30.

PROSPERITY NOT DUE TO DEMANDS OF WAR

Bulk Comes From Ordinary Business Channels, Declares Charles M. Schwab.

$2,500,000,000 TRADE BALANCE

Department of Commerce Shows Vast Gain in Wealth Under Wilson—Munitions Business Is but One Per Cent. of Total.

In answer to the cry of Republican politicians, that the unprecedented prosperity that has come to America under the administration of President Wilson is due to the European war orders, comes a statement from Charles M. Schwab, head of the Bethlehem Steel Company, himself a Republican, that refutes the charge.

"It is a mistake to imagine that the major portion of our business is war order business," says Mr. Schwab, in a signed article in the October number of System. "Even a casual inspection of the great volume of exports will demonstrate that the bulk is drawn from the ordinary course of business. It is also found that, at present prices, domestic business is as profitable as foreign munition business."

No one can doubt the capability of Mr. Schwab to judge the business situation, nor can one gainsay the recent figures issued by the Department of Commerce. In this report, it is stated that, during the first eight months of the present fiscal year, the exports of the United States showed a trade balance in favor of this country of $1,730,000,000.

Trade Balance $2,500,000,000.

Predictions are made that the trade balance for the entire year will exceed the unprecedented figure of $2,500,000,000. The value of the exports for the eight months was $3,435,969,212, an increase of $1,205,882,100 over the same period last year.

Another financial authority, too, has spoken—Charles Hayden, of Boston. He estimates that American securities held abroad have been reduced from $6,000,000,000, before the war, to $1,000,000,000 at the present time. Coincidentally, the United States has become a creditor of foreign nations, for the first time in history, to the extent of $1,500,000,000. Under Wilson, therefore, we have wiped out $6,000,000,000 of foreign indebtedness, and are a creditor to the amount of $500,000,000.

Mr. Hayden calls attention to the fact that this always was a debtor nation under Republican rule.

All Classes Prosperous.

And so, from all sections of the country, from all kinds and classes of business, from the merchant, the manufacturer, the farmer, the workingman, come reports of unparalleled prosperity. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, in an official report, declares that basic stocks are rising, that railroad earnings are abnormally high (indicating the great movement of commodities), and that the national prosperity will continue.

Not temporary prosperity, due to the war, is this that is filling the coffers of the nation. It has a sound basis for permanency, made certain by the laws enacted under the Wilson Administration. The President himself, in his recent speech at Baltimore, emphasized the value to the country of the Tariff Commission, the Trade Commission, the Federal Reserve Board and the shipping bill. These enactments not only will stimulate the productiveness of the country, but will safeguard its output and provide a means of conveying it to all the ports of the world.

How Business Has Gained.

Here is just a glimpse at percentages, prepared by expert statisticians, that prove what the Wilson Administration has done for the people:

Increase in bank deposits, 68 per cent.; money in circulation, 22 per cent.; stock of gold in United States, 84.1 per cent.; foreign commerce, 52.7 per cent.; balance of trade in favor of United States, 287.6 per cent.; agricultural exports, 44.1 per cent.; manufactured exports, 155 per cent.; railway revenues, 37.6 per cent.; value of general crops and live stock, 12.4 per cent.; value of wheat crop, 67.5 per cent.; output of pig iron, 35 per cent.; production of steel, 35.5 per cent.; farm lands, 12.7 per cent.; men employed in manufacturing, 23.2 per cent; wages paid in manufacturing, 41.5 per cent; capital employed in manufacturing, 30.9 per cent.; value of manufactured products, 41.2 per cent.

So it may be seen that all lines of industry have profited under the great wave of prosperity that the Democratic administration has wrought.

AND THE MUNITIONS BUSINESS COMPRISES ONLY ONE PER CENT. OF THE TOTAL OF MANUFACTURED PRODUCTS.

Is it the part of wisdom, therefore, to gamble with prosperity such as this?

Will the American voter dare to throw away a sure thing, on the chance that his return may be the enormous cost of war's poverty and destruction?

BOLTS G. O. P., BACKS WILSON

Frederick Ayer, Financier and Member of Union League Club, Makes $1,000 Contribution.

Frederick Ayer, a member of the Union League club—the center of Republicanism in New York city, if not in the country—has sent a check to Chairman Vance McCormick of the Democratic National Committee for $1,000, his contribution to the campaign fund for the re-election of President Wilson. With his check he sent a letter, in which he said:

"Convinced as I am that Mr. Wilson is one of the greatest Presidents we ever have had, his hatred of war and love of his country perching like jewels in his crown of office, I send herewith inclosed my check for $1,000, to be added to the National campaign fund for his election."

Mr. Ayer is a lawyer and financier, a life-long Republican, and is a stockholder and one of the few directors of the New York Tribune Association, publishers of the New York Tribune, which is supporting Hughes.

If you have the future interest of Centre county at heart, vote for Gardner.

TEN QUESTIONS FOR VOTERS

Ten questions for voters to answer in advance of Election Day:

1—Why are the Kings of Wall Street supporting Mr. Hughes?

2—Why are the great financial interests which favor a Central bank, in substitution for the Federal Reserve system, supporting Mr. Hughes?

3—Why are the high protective monopolists who prepared the Schedules of the Payne Adrich tariff for Mr. Hughes?

4—Why is every enemy of American neutrality for Mr. Hughes?

5—Why are all advocates of armed intervention in Mexico for Mr. Hughes?

6—Why are the trusts and organized greed in every section of the United States for Mr. Hughes?

7—Why are the heroes of military conscription for Mr. Hughes?

8—Why is every political reactionary and bourbon for Mr. Hughes?

9—Why is every enemy of industrial reform for Mr. Hughes?

10—Why is every boss and political grafter in the Republican party for Mr. Hughes?

TWO SERIOUS HUNTING ACCIDENTS.

Hunter Hits Companion When He Shoots at Turkey, Bullet Passing Through Chest.—The "Unloaded" Gun Blows off Head of Mifflin County Lad.

A ball from a high-power rifle passed clean through the body of Addison Jones, aged twenty-eight years, when his cousin, a Mr. Brooks, fired at a turkey and missed, while hunting at Julian, above Bellefonte, on Saturday morning. The unfortunate man was rushed to the Bellefonte hospital where it was at first thought he would not survive the accident, but later reports are to the effect that he will recover. The bullet passed close to the heart and came out at the back.

They were in an open field when a wild turkey was raised. Brooks shot at the turkey, but missed, and the bullet pierced Jones' body.

The hunting season was only four days old when the first fatal accident occured recently in the death of Eiden Knepp, aged nine years, of Belleville, Mifflin county. A gun, thought to be unloaded, was discharged in the hands of a cousin, Herman Knepp, aged seventeen. The youth had his head entirely shattered. The older lad had just returned from the woods with a wild turkey and was met by his cousin. On their way homeward the trigger of the gun was touched and the shell which remained in the gun barrel was exploded with the terrible result noted above.

Robert Glasgow Kicked by Horse.

Robert Glasgow, on the Michael Spicher farm, west of town, continues to be the champion hard luck farmer in this section. Following a string of misfortunes leading up to the destruction of his barn by fire, a short time ago, he on Friday received a knock-out blow from the rear feet of a stallion which resulted in four broken ribs and the tearing loose of two more. Mr. Glasgow and William Walker were loading logs in the woods on the Spicher farm and when Mr. Glasgow attempted to hook up the chain trace the horse switched his tail around, striking Mr. Glasgow in the face. For this unkind act the horse was given a kick which he resented by delivering a well-placed punch with the force of Jess Willard blow. He was up before the count of ten, however, and without assistance drove the team to the barn and then telephoned for Dr. H. H. Longwell who upon examination found the chest to be badly injured. The accident will necessitate Mr. Glasgow's refraining from all work for several weeks. His mistake, he says, was made in not getting in his kick with enough "pep" to put the beast out of working order.

Roman Child Dies of Paralysis.

Edgar, the six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roman, living two miles east of Pine Grove Mills, died last Thursday afternoon of infantile paralysis. The Monday previous the lad and his older brother Morris returned from school complaining of headache. A few days later physicians diagnosed the cases as infantile paralysis and the Roman residence was quarantined. Besides Morris, Roy, a son of four years, is also ill, but their condition is not alarming, according to word received by William Roman, east of Centre Hall, a brother of the parent. There are two younger children in the family who are not ill.

The deceased child was buried in the Pine Hall cemetery Thursday evening.

Governor Brumbaugh has appointed a commission of seventeen to take the vote of the boys on the front, on November 7th.

$62.00 An Acre Not Accepted for Farm.

The farm of the late Alexander McCoy, at Potters Mills, which was offered at public sale last Friday, was not sold, the only bid of $62.00 per acre being deemed by the heirs not high enough. D. R. Foreman, of Bellefonte, placed the above bid. The farm contains 162 acres. Two smaller tracts, however, were sold, as follows:

Tract No. 2, containing a little over nine acres, was sold to F. A. Carson for $50.50 an acre.

Almost 2 Inches of Rain.

Thursday and Friday of last week good steady rains resulted in a total precipitation of 1.80 inches. Thursday's rainfall was the heavier, the rain gauge showing a total of 1.15 inches, the greater part of which fell late Wednesday night.

Farmers living west of Centre Hall declare that hail accompanied Thursday's rain.

Boal Troop in Hard Drill Work.

By PRIVATE WILLIAM BAILEY.

El Paso, Texas, October 19, 1916

"The past two weeks have been devoted to drilling. A force of seven instructors have taken us in hand with very good results. Our troop was first formed into squads, according to height, composed of ten men each. One sergeant was assigned to each squad and then squad drilling was begun. This was followed by forming platoons, of two or more squads, and a new set of drills. After a day's work the platoons were consolidated into "troop" and we are now drilling in an entire body.

"We had one full week of cavalry foot drill and we received orders on Saturday that on the following Monday the colonel of our regiment would inspect our drill. On the merits of this drill we were to receive our saddles and drill the horses. There was a certain anxiety among the boys when the colonel put us to the test, first putting us through the squad drilling, then platoon, and finally troop drilling. He appeared well pleased and in a short time word arrived that we had passed the examination and that our saddles would be issued to us the following morning. The colonel congratulated Lieut. Boal on the ability his men displayed in the drill work.

"Tuesday morning the saddles arrived and in the afternoon an instructor explained to us the "whys" and "wherefores" of every saddle movement. Drilling the horses in squad formations was then engaged in and kept up for two solid hours. The instructor remarked that he was well pleased with the horsemanship and general behavior of the troopers.

"Heavy rains followed and as a consequence there will be no drilling for a day or two.

"Many soldier boys have taken a liking to the little Mexican burros, a small donkey used as a pack animal among the natives, and are shipping them home, while others will take theirs with them when they leave the border. Mexicans sell the animals for $2.00 to $5.00, and in case of great thirst a Mexican will let one go for a small bottle of fire water."

Jordan-Foust.

George Jordan and Miss Emma Foust, both of Tusseyville, were united in marriage Saturday evening of last week. 'Squire James W. Swabb, of Linden Hall, tied the knot.

REPORT OF THE WORK OF Y. W. C. A. OF CENTRE CO.

Various Clubs Show Season of Great Activity and Program Outlined for Winter Months Has Many Good Things in Store.

The work of the past three months has been varied. During July there were several out-of-door meetings to be arranged, picnics held, a play for the True Blue Club to be coached, arrangements made for carrying on the work in some of the country schools which are looked after by the College Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. during the winter, an explanation of the Y. W. C. A. work given at Orviston, a Summer Recreation Club formed at State College, and the usual club and branch meetings held. During September plans for the next year's work were made in most of the clubs and branches and a regular schedule is now in working order at most places.

The clubs have drawn up varied programmes, including nutting days, Hallowe'en socials, Thanksgiving and Christmas parties, sleigh rides, singing of Christmas songs to shutins, making scrap-books for hospitals, meetings for mothers, learning beadwork, crocheting and sewing, studying "Christian Citizenship for Girls," and "Out-of-Doors in the Bible," talks on health, first aid, millinery and household subjects, presenting plays, learning new games and folk dances, earning the Helen Gould Bible, and other things. Most of the clubs want to raise enough money during the winter to go camping next summer. In several places the roll-call is to be answered at club meetings with a list of birds or trees learned, a book read, or with Current Events, or Club credits earned.

The Spring Mills girls had a tent at the Grange Encampment with a Y. W. C. A. pennant displayed that caused many people to inquire about the Association. This club is beginning to make itself felt in the community. One of the girls recently said that although she had gone to school with some of the girls in the club she had never really had any friends among the girls, and now they all had so many more good times, and all the girls were so much more friendly.

The new work started at Oak Hall is a Junior Club of girls from 6 to 10 years of age. The girls are learning to sew, do little hand-work things, and have games and stories. They will meet at the same time as the Common Weal Club, under the direction of Mrs. Ferree, and when it comes time for the games the two clubs will unite. The Common Weal Club is planning to put a sign-post at a cross-roads where one would be of great help to the traveling public.

The True Blue girls are planning to raise a certain amount of money to present to the Shilo Church to aid in getting individual communion service for the church.

The Happiness Brigade at Centre Furnace which was never in good running order has started in as a regular Common Weal Club, under the leadership of Miss Anna Whipple, one of the College girls. They are learning the Helen Gould verses, and doing bead work among other things.

The Polly Anna Club of younger girls at Lemont is starting again under the direction of Miss Nelle Wilson, assisted by other college girls.

The Pine Grove Mills Club could not organize this summer as had been expected, for the leader and most of the members were away from home. It is hoped that they may start again very soon.

The State College Branch is now in its new quarters. A membership campaign was recently held, and there are now ninety-seven members. A club for the development of friendliness and social life among girls has been formed with Mrs. Arthur Holmes as leader. For the first few meetings the girls will learn crocheting, embroidery, and work on Christmas presents for a part of an evening, and spend the rest of it in games and social events. Later, officers will be elected and business carried on regularly according to the desires of the girls. Classes have been formed in basketry, current events, gymnasium, typewriting and shorthand, crocheting, spanish, folk dancing, bible and missionary study, cooking, and sewing. The gymnasium class is especially popular. The High school club has planned an interesting year based on its purpose.

At Boalsburg, Millheim and Bellefonte, there is enough interest to start local work soon.

While the County Week at Camp Nepahwin was more on the order of a summer camp than a Conference, the girls who went thoroughly enjoyed it and gained new ideas for their local clubs. At the real County Conference at Williams Bay, Wisconsin, Miss Lola Ulrich, the leader of the Spring Mills Common Weal Club, was present for half the time. At the conference next summer, may Centre County be represented by a big delegation! It is hoped that there will be one at Silver Bay, N. Y., next year for the Eastern counties and since that is so much nearer surely several of the Board members and others can get there.

Four Killed in Auto at Grade Crossing.

Four persons were instantly killed and their bodies frightfully mangled when a passenger train struck the Chevrolet car in which they were riding as they attempted to cross the railroad tracks at Altoona, on Friday evening. Two girls, a young lady and an elderly woman comprise the dead, while the driver of the car was so badly injured that his recovery is doubtful.

To vote for the Wilson electors is not all that the voter who favors the Wilson policies can do and should do. To guarantee a further enactment of the Wilson ideas you must vote for Tobias and Orvis so that congress will support the president.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST FROM ALL PARTS

George E. Breon, who is employed at Milton, was home over Sunday.

Put out the flag on Saturday, October 28th. It's Wilson Day all over the United States.

Miss Catherine Heckman, of Johnstown, was a guest at the Bartholomew and S. S. Kreamer homes from Friday until Monday.

Joseph W. Reifsnyder, of Millheim, fell from a chestnut tree, a distance of twenty feet, a week ago, and fractured his left arm besides receiving numerous bruises.

A wounded pheasant sought refuge at the home of Rev. M. D. Geesey, at Aaronsburg, one day last week, having flown from the mountains nearby. Rev. Geesey caught the bird.

Mrs. L. W. S. Person and Mrs. Ammon Burkholder and daughter Margaret, of Phillipsburg, New Jersey, are spending a short time with the former two ladies' mother, Mrs. M. E. Strohm.

A monument erected to the memory of Capt. Harry Green, who was massacred by a band of Indians in 1801, will be unveiled with due ceremony near Loganton, Clinton county, November 18th. Col. Henry W. Shoemaker will conduct the unveiling.

The apple orchard on Dr. G. S. Frank's farm, near Millheim, tenanted by Charles F. Stover, this year yielded 670 bushels of choice hand picked winter apples. One hundred barrels of the fruit were packed last week for shipment to the Pittsburgh district.

The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin in its several columns long account of the Keystone State Democrats to "Shadow Lawn," gives to Hon. Charles R. Kurtz the credit of being the originator of the movement to hear President Wilson at his summer home.

Domer S. Ishler and family moved into the Mrs. Mary Rearick property on Wednesday. Mr. Ishler is the agent for the Essenkay Products Co., of Chicago, Illinois, makers of the famous tire filler, and he expects to devote the greater part of his time to this work.

The first degree work since the numerous P. O. S. of A. camps have been instituted in different parts of Centre county, will take place Saturday evening at Bellefonte, when a team of twenty men from Tyrone will exemplify the degrees. A number of members of the local camp will attend.

Mrs. W. W. Harpster, in a communication to the Reporter, states that she has returned to Freeport, Ill., after having been in Chicago since the death of Mr. Harpster. She spoke very feelingly of her visits to Centre Hall and of the happy times she and Mr. Harpster enjoyed among its people.

Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Funk, formerly of Pittsburgh, became residents of Centre Hall last Thursday, having moved into the latter's property on east Church street. Mrs. Funk will be better known as Mrs. Anna D. Bitte, whose marriage to Mr. Funk, a Millheim native, occurred about six months ago.

As two small boys were in the act of driving their parents' cows out of the pasture, near Howard, a few evenings ago, a rapidly driven motor car came along and knocked one of the animals over, killing her instantly. The automobile stopped with the cow's body resting under it, all the wheels off the ground. None of the inmates of the car was hurt.

The store building recently purchased by the local Odd Fellows lodge is being put in shape for the new tenant, C. M. Smith, of Coburn, who started to move his household goods here on Tuesday. A number of windows were placed in the east end of the building, and on Monday John M. Coldren commenced papering the store-room. The dwelling portion of the building will be equipped with a bathroom and papered.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Neese, of Auburn, New York, accompanied the body of the latter's mother, Mrs. Hannah Luse, who died at her daughter's home last Tuesday, to Centre Hall, on Thursday, where burial was made. Mr. and Mrs. Neese have been spending the past week with relatives here but will return to their home today (Thursday). Other relatives from a distance attending the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. William Luse, daughter Helen and son Robert, of Altoona, and Mrs. Charles Grimm, of Mill Hall.

Clayton H. Homan, of Cleveland, Ohio, visited friends in Centre Hall the greater part of last week. He was on his way home from Philadelphia and Wilkes-Barre where he had been sent in the interest of the H. A. Lozier Company, of Cleveland, manufacturers of the H. A. L. car, a company which was only a short time reorganized and in which Charles Homan, also a former local boy, holds a head office. "Bud" is working in the machine shops of the company and was sent to Wilkes-Barre to enter a H. A. L. car in a hill-climbing contest.

Ike Berney, the Lewistown movie magnate, was one of the violators of the speed law in passing thru Centre Hall a short time ago and last week appeared before 'Squire Brungart to settle up. After paying his fine he was compensated somewhat, says the Lewistown Sentinel, for the expenditure for upon the return trip in passing over a roadway across the Seven mountains he shot around a sharp turn and came upon a huge bear standing upright in the middle of the roadway. Bruin took one look at the approaching car and then proceeded apace down the mountain side where he evidently had an important engagement.

Democratic Leaders Confident of Landslide.

Splendid Record of the President Has Won the Confidence of the People of Three Important Western States.

President Wilson's western campaign managers gave him an agreeable surprise upon his arrival in Chicago on his way to Omaha when they informed him that a landslide awaits him in the West in the election. They told him that the Democrats will gain notable victories in the states of Utah, Washington and Oregon.

At the close of a day's fatiguing journey on his first visit to the middle West since his renomination, the president listened for an hour to the gratifying reports of Senators Thomas J. Walsh, western campaign manager; Senators Saulsbury and Husting, Congressman Ferris and Mrs. George Bass, head of the woman's bureau of the Democratic National committee. They reported that a "big Democratic drive" is being made in every state west of the Allegheny mountains.

As the president's train backed into the station, Mr. Wilson hurried to the rear platform of his car to greet the railway trainmen, whose enthusiastic cheering and noisy tooting of locomotive whistles greeted his arrival. "We're with you, Woody," yelled the fireman of a passing switch engine. A man in the signal tower called for three cheers for Wilson, and they were given with lusty will. The president waved his acknowledgments.

From the platform of his car Mr. Wilson greeted the workers who crowded about, and for more than a quarter of an hour he grasped warmly the grimy hands that were held aloft to seize his.

"If one-half of the reports coming to the western headquarters are true," said Senator Walsh, "a tremendous Democratic landslide is ahead of us. We are making enormous gains in the West and middle West." Utah, one of the two states carried by Taft four years ago, and Oregon and Washington were placed in the Democratic column in the report made to the president.

Republican Leader for Wilson.

Former Republican Congressman George A. Pearr of Maryland has repudiated the action of a group of Progressives in his state in indorsing Hughes, and has announced his intention to heartily support Wilson. Mr. Pearr has been a leader in the Progressive movement in Maryland and is supported in his stand by many influential Progressives of his state.

"We were led to the mountain peak," said Mr. Pearr in announcing his new allegiance, "and were given a glimpse of the promised land. We then saw an idol dashed to the ground and shattered. I regret that the Republican party has been delivered into the hands of the Philistines.

"If Theodore Roosevelt was right in 1912, he ought to have been right in 1916. In 1916 we were the militants. We marched to the tune of 'Onward Christian Soldiers'; we were fighting the battle of Armageddon.

"The leaders of the Republican party of 1912 are the leaders of the Republican party in 1916. Do you suppose that these gentlemen have reformed? Is Joe Cannon any different? Penrose, whom Wilson denounced, is high in the counsels of the Republican party. The burglars whom Roosevelt condemned are still in the saddle. In Illinois, Mr. Lorimer came within 2,000 votes of landing the congressional nomination."

Indiana in Democratic Column.

Senator Thomas Taggart of Indiana claims the Democrats will carry the Hoosier state by 60,000. These figures are being scoffed at by the Republican campaign managers, but it must not be forgotten that the Indiana senator—knows the state like a book. It was he who made the famous prophecy when Harrison was the Republican candidate for the presidency: "We will beat him in the nation, we will beat him in the state, we will beat him in Marion county, in the city of Indianapolis, and in fact clear down to his front gate." And the election figures showed that Taggart was right.

A Wilson Advantage.

One of Mr. Wilson's chief advantages has been given him by his critics. In answer to the deluge of criticism, verging into captiousness and abuse, that has been poured upon his head, he maintains an attitude of dignity and reserve, of self-confidence and discrimination in expression, which adds more power to his words than sheer logic.

President Eliot's Testimony.

President Emeritus Eliot of Harvard says the Democrats, guided by a powerful leader, have done more since 1913 than Republican administrations in five times that period. Harvard's emeritus president has now arrived at a position and at an age when to find the truth and aid it constitute the chief charm of living to a right-thinking man. There could not be a better campaign document than Mr. Eliot's article in the Atlantic Monthly on "The Achievements of the Democratic Party and Its Leader Since March 4, 1913."

DOES NATION DESIRE WAR?

President Wilson's Solemn Warning of What a Republican Victory Would Mean.

President Wilson, speaking before the Young Men's League of Democratic Clubs at Shadow Lawn, Long Branch, N. J., September 30, told the American people that the nation faces the parting of the ways at the election, November 7. The choice is: Elect Wilson and continue the policy of —peace—or, elect Hughes and plunge America into war.

"There is only one choice as against peace, and that is war," said the president. "Some of the supporters of that (the Republican) party, a very great body of supporters of that party, outspokenly declare that they want war, so that the certain prospects of the success of the Republican party is that we shall be drawn, in one form or another, into the embroilments of the European war, and that to the south of us the forces of the United States will be used to produce in Mexico the kind of law and order which some of the investors in Mexico consider most to their advantage.

"I do not find that anybody else's counsel is taken in respect of the policy that this country should pursue with regard to Mexico, except those who have hitherto acted as the counselors for the vested interests in Mexico. The whole country is acquainted with the gentlemen who have been consulted. There is no concealment, even by themselves, whose attorneys they are. They have talked to me. I know exactly what they want. I have declined to give it to them and now they are going where they think they can get it. And there is every indication, on the surface, at any rate, that their calculation is well founded.

"The conference which is being held with regard to Mexican affairs is embarrassed every day by the apparent evidence which is being produced that hostility to Mexico is being traded upon by one of the great political parties. These gentlemen may reconcile these influences with patriotic purpose, but it is difficult for all of us to do so, and the one thing I want to lay emphasis upon in this connection is this: That a great, fundamental, final choice with regard to our foreign relationships is to be made on the 7th of November."

Kentucky Safely Democratic.

Hughes' campaign chairman, William Willcox, started out by listing the Democratic states of North Carolina, Tennessee and Kentucky in the doubtful column. He soon gave up the first two, and he might as well give up Kentucky, for the Blue Grass state was never more surely Democratic than it is this year.

If Wilson can carry most of the debatable states having a Democratic leaning he will have enough electoral votes and a few to spare.—Birmingham (Ala.) Age-Herald.

The laboring people are convinced that in President Wilson they have a man who will see that they get what he believes to be their rights, and they are for him. Hughes, on the other hand, has a record as governor of New York which is not especially pleasing to the workingmen of the country. Then, he is not in the class with the president in the matter of public speaking and writing. It is becoming more and more certain that the president will be re-elected.

Republican Sheet Pessimistic.

The Terre Haute (Ind.) Star (Republican) warns the party of Hughes that it "will have to get busy," in these words: "The most foolish thing the Republicans can do in the present campaign will be to underestimate the magnitude of the job they have on hand. Their hopes for November may be realized, but not unless ways and means are wisely considered and sagaciously applied. Their contemptuous attitude toward Wilson is as yet a long way from wide popular acceptance.

"Vast numbers continue to look upon the president as a brave and sincere man, humanly imperfect, perhaps, but in full sympathy with the progressive reforms of the hour, passionately devoted to the causes of democracy and liberty, zealous for peace, firmly set against greed and oppression in high places. Some of these numbers must be won over or the battle is lost."

Which Policy Do Voters Prefer?

The Merrill (Wis.) Herald (Republican) says: "Mr. Wilson, in a notable speech, declares that if Roosevelt or even Hughes followed out what they are contending during the last four years, this country would have been plunged into war; that he has secured peace and prosperity with honor to the United States. . . . It is up to the voters of the United States to determine which policy they desire to have carried out during the next four years, and who shall be the president to direct the affairs of our national government and to protect our interests."

Secret of Hughes' Philosophy.

At last we believe we begin to get Candidate Hughes' idea. It is that everything that has been done, no matter how warmly we may have approved of it at the time, is wrong, evil and spurious if it was not done by Aldrich, Cannon, Taft, Smoot, Gallinger, Ballinger, Crane and Penrose under the aegis of the G. O. P.

Voice Troubles.

Mr. Hughes' voice trouble proves that a man can get as hoarse saying nothing worth while as any other way.

Prince Albert gives smokers such delight, because

Old Man Sheridan, mightily pleased with Bibbs, has gone to Mary Vertrees with the purpose of "fixing up" the "trouble" between her and his son. He wants to see the young folks happy.

"I'm sorry," said Mary. "I hoped you'd come because we're neighbors."

He chuckled. "Neighbors! Sometimes people don't see so much o' their neighbors as they used to. That is, I hear so—lately."

"You'll stay long enough to sit down, won't you?"

"I guess I could manage that much." And they sat down, facing each other and not far apart.

"Of course, it couldn't be called business, exactly," he said, more gravely. "Not at all, I expect. But there's something o' yours it seemed to me I ought to give you, and I just thought it was better to bring it myself and explain how I happened to have it. It's this—this letter you wrote my boy." He extended the letter to her solemnly, in his left hand, and she took it gently from him. "It was in his mail, after he was hurt. You knew he never got it, I expect."

"Yes," she said, in a low voice.

He sighed. "I'm glad he didn't. Not," he added, quickly—"not but what you did just right to send it. You did. You couldn't acted any other way when it came right down to it. There ain't any blame comin' to you—you were aboveboard all through."

Mary said, "Thank you," almost in a whisper, and with her head bowed low.

"You'll have to excuse me for readin' it. I had to take charge of all his mail and everything; I didn't know the handwritin', and I read it all—once I got started."

"I'm glad you did."

"Well"—he leaned forward as if to rise—"I guess that's about all. I just thought you ought to have it."

"Thank you for bringing it."

He looked at her hopefully, as if he thought and wished that she might have something more to say. But she seemed not to be aware of this glance, and sat with her eyes fixed sorrowfully upon the floor.

"Well, I expect I better be gettin' back to the office," he said, rising desperately. "I told—I told my partner I'd be back at two o'clock, and I guess he'll think I'm a poor business man if he catches me behind time. I got to walk the chalk a mighty straight line these days—with that fellow keepin' tabs on me!"

Mary rose with him. "I've always heard you were the hard driver."

He guffawed derisively. "Me? I'm nothin' to that partner o' mine. You couldn't guess to save your life how he keeps after me to hold up my end o' the job. I shouldn't be surprised he'd give me the grand bounce some day, and run the whole circus himself. You know how he is—once he goes at a thing!"

"No," she smiled. "I didn't know you had a partner. I'd always heard—"

He laughed, looking away from her. "It's just my way o' speakin' o' that boy o' mine, Bibbs."

He stood then, expectant, staring out into the hall with an air of careless geniality. He felt that she certainly must say at least, "How is Bibbs?" but she said nothing at all, though he waited until the silence became embarrassing.

"Well, I guess I better be gettin' down there," he said, at last. "He might worry."

"Goodby—and thank you," said Mary.

"For what?"

"For the letter."

"Oh," he said, blankly. "You're welcome. Goodby."

Mary put out her hand. "Goodby."

"You'll have to excuse my left hand," he said. "I had a little accident to the other one."

She gave a pitying cry as she saw. "Oh, poor Mr. Sheridan!"

"Nothin' at all! Dictate everything nowadays, anyhow." He laughed jovially. "Did anybody tell you how it happened?"

"I heard you hurt your hand, but no—not just how."

"It was this way," he began, and both, as if unconsciously, sat down again. "You may not know it, but I used to worry a good deal about the youngest o' my boys—the one that used to come to see you sometimes, after Jim—that is, I mean Bibbs. He's the one I spoke of as my partner; and the truth is that's what it's just about goin' to amount to, one o' these days—if his health holds out. Well, you remember, I expect, I had him on a machine over at a plant o' mine; and sometimes I'd kind o' sneak in there and see how he was gettin' along. Take a doctor with me sometimes, because Bibbs never was so robust, you might say. Ole Doc Gurney—I guess maybe you know him? Tall, thin man; acts sleepy—"

"Yes."

"Well, one day I an' ole Doc Gurney, we were in there, and I undertook to show Bibbs how to run his machine. He told me to look out, but I wouldn't listen, and I didn't look out—and that's how I got my hand hurt, tryin' to show Bibbs to do something he knew how to do and I didn't. Made me so mad I just wouldn't even admit to myself it was hurt—and so, by and by, ole Doc Gurney had to take kind o' radical measures with me. He's a right good doctor, too. Don't you think so, Miss Vertrees?"

"Yes."

"Yes, he is so!" Sheridan now had the air of a rambling talker and gossip with all day on his hands. "Take him on Bibbs' case. I was talkin' about Bibbs' case with him this morning. Well, you'd laugh to hear the way ole Gurney talks about that! 'Course he is just as much a friend as he is doctor—and he takes as much interest in Bibbs as if he was in the family. He thinks Bibbs isn't anyways bad off yet; and he thinks he could stand the pace and get fat on it if—well, this is what'd make you laugh if you'd been there, Miss Vertrees—honest it would!" He paused to chuckle, and stole a glance at her. She was gazing straight before her at the wall; her lips were parted, and—visibly—she was breathing heavily and quickly. He feared that she was growing furiously angry; but he had led to what he wanted to say, and he went on, determined now to say it all. He leaned forward and altered his voice to one of confidential friendliness, though in it he still maintained a tone which indicated that ole Doc Gurney's opinion was only a joke he shared with her. "Yes, sir, you certainly would 'a' laughed! Why, that ole man thinks you got something to do with it. You'll have to blame it on him, young lady, if it makes you feel like startin' out to whip somebody! He's actually got this theory: he says Bibbs got to gettin' better while he worked over there at the shop because you kept him cheered up and feelin' good. And he says if you could manage to just stand him hangin' round a little—maybe not much, but just sometimes—again, he believed it'd do Bibbs a mighty lot o' good. 'Course that's only what the doctor said. Me, I don't know anything about that; but I can say this much—I never saw any such a mental improvement in anybody in my life as I have lately in Bibbs. I expect you'd find him a good deal more entertaining than what he used to be—and I know it's a kind of embarrassing thing to suggest after the way he piled in over here that day to ask you to stand up before the preacher with him, but accordin' to ole Doc Gurney, he's got you on his brain so bad—"

Mary jumped. "Mr. Sheridan!" she exclaimed.

He sighed profoundly. "There! I noticed you were gettin' mad. I didn't—"

"No, no, no!" she cried. "But I don't understand—and I think you don't. What is it you want me to do?"

He sighed again, but this time with relief. "Well, well!" he said. "You're right. It'll be easier to talk plain. I ought to known I could with you, all the time. I just hoped you'd let that boy come and see you sometimes, once more. Could you?"

"You don't understand." She clasped her hands together in a sorrowful gesture. "Yes, we must talk plain. Bibbs heard that I'd tried to make your oldest son care for me because I was poor, and so Bibbs came and asked me to marry him—because he was sorry for me. And I can't see him any more," she cried in distress. "I can't!"

Sheridan cleared his throat uncomfortably. "You mean because he thought that about you?"

"No, no! What he thought was true!"

"Well—you mean he was so much in—you mean he thought so much of you—" The words were inconceivably awkward upon Sheridan's tongue; he seemed to be in doubt even about pronouncing them, but after a ghastly pause he bravely repeated them. "You mean he thought so much of you that you just couldn't stand him around?"

"No! He was sorry for me. He cared for me; he was fond of me; and he'd respected me—too much! In the finest way he loved me, if you like, and he'd have done anything on earth for me, as I would for him, and as he knew I would. It was beautiful, Mr. Sheridan," she said. "But the cheap, bad things one has done seem always to come back—they wait, and pull you down when you're happiest. Bibbs found me out, you see; and he wasn't 'in love' with me at all."

"He wasn't? Well, it seems to me he gave up everything he wanted to do—it was fool stuff, but he certainly wanted it mighty bad—he just threw it away and walked right up and took the job he swore he never would—just for you. And it looks to me as if a man that'd do that must think quite a heap o' the girl he does it for! You say it was only because he was sorry, but let me tell you there's only one girl he could feel that sorry for! Yes, sir!"

"No, no," she said. "Bibbs isn't like other men—he would do anything for anybody."

Sheridan grinned. "Perhaps not so much as you think, nowadays," he said. "For instance, I got kind of a suspicion he doesn't believe in 'sentiment in business.' But that's neither here nor there. What he wanted was, just plain and simple, for you to marry him. Well, I was afraid his thinkin' so much of you had kind o' sickened you of him—the way it does sometimes. But from the way you talk, I understand that ain't the trouble." He coughed and his voice trembled a little. "Now here, Miss Vertrees, I don't have to tell you—because you see things easy—I know I got no business comin' to you like this, but I had to make Bibbs go my way instead of his own—I had to do it for the sake o' my business and on his own account, too—and I expect you got some idea how it hurt him to give up. Well, he's made good. He didn't come in half-hearted or mean; he came in—all the way! But there isn't anything in it to him; you can see he's just shut his teeth on it and goin' ahead with dust in his mouth. You see, one way of lookin' at it, he's got nothin' to work for. And it seems to me like it cost him your friendship, and I believe—honest—that's what hurt him the worst. Now you said we'd talk plain. Why can't you let him come back?"

She covered her face desperately with her hands. "I can't!"

He rose, defeated, and looking it.

"Well, I mustn't press you," he said, gently.

At that she cried out, and dropped her hands and let him see her face. "Ah! He was only sorry for me!"

He gazed at her intently. Mary was proud, but she had a fatal honesty, and it confessed the truth of her now; she was helpless. It was so clear that even Sheridan, marveling and amazed, was able to see it. Then a change came over him: gloom fell from him, and he grew radiant.

"Don't! Don't!" she cried. "You mustn't—"

"I won't tell him," said Sheridan, from the doorway. "I won't tell anybody anything!"

CHAPTER XXXIII.

There was a heavy town-fog that afternoon, a smoke-mist, densest in the sanctuary of the temple. The people went about in it, busy and dirty, thickening their outside and inside linings of coal-tar, asphalt, sulphurous acid, oil of vitriol, and the other familiar things the men liked to breathe and to have upon their skins and garments and upon their wives and babies and sweethearts. The growth of the city was visible in the smoke and the noise and the rush. There was more smoke than there had been this day of February a year earlier; there was more noise; and the crowds were thicker—yet quicker in spite of that. The traffic policeman had a hard time, for the people were independent—they retained some habits of the old market-town period, and would cross the street anywhere and anyhow, which not only got them killed more frequently than if they clung to the legal crossings, but kept the motormen, the chauffeurs and the truck drivers in a stew of profane nervousness. So the traffic policemen led harried lives; they themselves were killed, of course, with a certain periodicity, but their main trouble was that they could not make the citizens realize that it was actually and mortally perilous to go about their city. It was strange, for there were probably no citizens of any length of residence who had not personally known either someone who had been killed or injured in an accident, or someone who had accidentally killed or injured others. And yet, perhaps it was not strange, seeing the sharp preoccupation of the faces—the people had something on their minds; they could not stop to bother about dirt and danger.

Mary Vertrees was not often downtown; she had never seen an accident until this afternoon. She had come upon errands for her mother connected with a timorous refurbishment; and as she did these, in and out of the department stores, she had an insistent consciousness of the Sheridan building. From the street, anywhere, it was almost always in sight, like some monstrous geometrical shadow, murk-colored and rising limitlessly into the swimming heights of the smoke-mist. It was gaunt and grimy and repellent; it had nothing but strength and size—but in that consciousness of Mary's the great structure may have partaken of beauty. Sheridan had made some of the things he said emphatic enough to remain with her. She went over and over them—and they began to seem true: "Only one girl he could feel that sorry for!" "Gurney says he's got you on his brain so bad—" The man's clumsy talk began to sing in her heart. The song was begun there when she saw the accident.

She was directly opposite the Sheridan building then, waiting for the traffic to thin before she crossed, though other people were risking the passage, darting and halting and dodging perilously. Two men came from the crowd behind her, talking earnestly, and started across. Both wore black; one was tall and broad and thick, and the other was taller, but noticeably slender. And Mary caught her breath, for they were Bibbs and his father. They did not see her, and she caught a phrase of Bibbs' mellow voice, which had taken a crisper ring: "Sixty-eight thousand dollars? Not sixty-eight thousand buttons!" It startled her queerly, and as there was a glimpse of his profile she saw for the first time a resemblance to his father.

She watched them. In the middle of the street Bibbs had to step ahead of his father, and the two were separated. But the reckless passing of a truck, beyond the second line of rails, frightened a group of country women who were in course of passage: they were just in front of Bibbs, and shoved backward upon him violently. To extricate himself from them he stepped back, directly in front of a moving trolley car—no place for absent-mindedness, but Bibbs was still absorbed in thoughts concerned with what he had been saying to his father. There were shrieks and yells; Bibbs looked the wrong way—and then Mary saw the heavy figure of Sheridan plunge straight forward in front of the car. With absolute disregard of his own life, he hurled himself at Bibbs like a football player shunting off an opponent, and to Mary it seemed that they both went down together. But that was all she could see—automobiles, trucks and wagons closed in between. She made out that the trolley car stopped jerkily, and she saw a policeman breaking his way through the instantly condensing crowd, while the traffic came to a standstill, and people stood up in automobiles or climbed upon the hubs and tires of wheels, not to miss a chance of seeing anything horrible.

Mary tried to get through; it was impossible. Other policemen came to help the first, and in a minute or two traffic was in motion again. The crowd became pliant, dispersing—there was no figure upon the ground, and no ambulance came. But one of the policemen was detained by the clinging and beseeching of a gloved hand.

"What is the matter, lady?"

"Where are they?" Mary cried.

"Who? Ole Man Sheridan? I reckon he wasn't much hurt!"

"His son—"

"Was that who the other one was? I seen him knock him—oh, he's not bad off, I guess, lady. The ole man got him out of the way all right. The fender shoved the ole man around some, but I reckon he only got shook up. They both went on in the Sheridan building without any help. Excuse me, lady."

Sheridan and Bibbs, in fact, were at that moment in the elevator, ascending. "Whisk-broom up in the office," Sheridan was saying. "You got to look out on these corners nowadays, I tell you. I don't know I got any call to blow, though—because I tried to cross after you did. That's how I happened to run into you. Well, you remember to look out after this. We were talkin' about Murtrie's askin' sixty-eight thousand flat for that ninety-nine-year lease. It's his lookout if he'd rather take it that way, and I don't know but—"

"No," said Bibbs, emphatically, as the elevator stopped; "he won't get it. Not from Us, he won't, and I'll show you why. I can convince you in five minutes." He followed his father into the office anteroom—and convinced him. Then, having been diligently brushed by a youth of color, Bibbs went into his own room and closed the door.

He was more shaken than he had allowed his father to perceive, and his side was sore where Sheridan had struck him. He desired to be alone; he wanted to rub himself and, for once, to do some useless thinking again. He knew that his father had not "happened" to run into him; he knew that Sheridan had instantly—and instinctively—proved that he held his own life of no account whatever compared to that of his son and heir. Bibbs had been unable to speak of that, or seem to know it; for Sheridan, just as instinctively, had swept the matter aside—as of no importance, since all was well—reverting immediately to business.

Bibbs began to think intently of his father. He perceived, as he had never perceived before, the shadowing of something enormous and indomitable—and lawless; not to be daunted by the will of nature's very self; laughing at the lightning and at wounds and mutilation; conquering, irresistible—and blindly noble. For the first time in his life Bibbs began to understand the meaning of being truly this man's son.

He would be the more truly his son henceforth, though, as Sheridan said. Bibbs had not come downtown with him meanly or half-heartedly. He had given his word because he had wanted the money, simply, for Mary Vertrees in her need. And he shivered with horror of himself, thinking how he had gone to her to offer it, asking her to marry him—with his head on his breast in shameful fear that she would accept him! He had not known her; the knowing had lost her to him, and this had been his real awakening; for he knew now how deep had been that slumber wherein he dreamily celebrated the superiority of "friendship!" The sleep-walker had wakened to bitter knowledge of love and life, finding himself a failure in both. He had made a burnt offering of his dreams, and the sacrifice had been an unforgivable hurt to Mary. All that was left for him was the work he had chosen, but at least he would not fail in that, though it was indeed no more than "dust in his mouth." If there had been anything "to work for—"

He went to the window, raised it, and let in the uproar of the streets below. He looked down at the blurred, hurrying swarms—and he looked across, over the roofs with their panting jets of vapor, into the vast, foggy heart of the smoke. Dizzy traceries of steel were rising dimly against it, chattering with steel on steel, and screeching in steam, while tiny figures of men walked on threads in the dull sky. Buildings would overtop the Sheridan Bigness was being served.

But what for? The old question came to Bibbs with a new despair. Here, where his eye fell, had once been green fields and running brooks, and how had the kind earth been despoiled and disfigured! The pioneers had begun the work, but in their old age their orators had said for them that they had toiled and risked and sacrificed that their posterity might live in peace and wisdom, enjoying the fruits of the earth. Well, their posterity was here—and there was only turmoil. Where was the promised land? It had been promised by the soldiers of all the wars; it had been promised to this generation by the pioneers; but here was the very posterity to whom it had been promised, toiling and risking and sacrificing in turn—for what?

The harsh roar of the city came in through the open window, continuously beating upon Bibbs' ear until he began to distinguish a pulsation in it—a broken and irregular cadence. It seemed to him that it was like a titanic voice, discordant, hoarse, rustily metallic—the voice of the god, Bigness. And the voice summoned Bibbs as it summoned all its servants.

"Come and work!" it seemed to call. "Come and work for Me, all men! By your youth and your hope I summon you! By your age and your despair I summon you to work for Me yet a little, with what strength you have. By your love of home I summon you! By your love of woman I summon you! By your hope of children I summon you!

"You shall be blind slaves of Mine, blind to everything but Me, your Master and Driver! For your reward you shall gaze only upon my ugliness. You shall give your toil and your lives, you shall go mad for love and worship of my ugliness! You shall perish still worshiping Me, and your children shall perish knowing no other god!"

And then, as Bibbs closed the window down tight, he heard his father's voice booming in the next room; he could not distinguish the words, but the tone was exultant—and there came the thump! thump! of the maimed hand. Bibbs guessed that Sheridan was bragging of the city and of the Bigness to some visitor from out of town.

And he thought how truly Sheridan was the high priest of Bigness. But with the old, old thought again, "What for?" Bibbs caught a glimmer of far, faint light. He saw that Sheridan had all his life struggled and conquered, and must all his life go on struggling and inevitably conquering, as part of a vast impulse not his own. Sheridan served blindly—but was the impulse blind? Bibbs asked himself if it was not he who had been in the greater hurry, after all. The kiln must be fired before the vase is glazed, and the Acropolis was not crowned with marble in a day.

Then the voice came to him again, but there was a strain in it as of some huge music struggling to be born of the turmoil. "Ugly I am," it seemed to say to him, "but never forget that I am a god!" And the voice grew in sonorousness and in dignity. "The highest should serve, but so long as you worship me for my own sake I will not serve you. It is man who makes me ugly, by his worship of me. If man would let me serve him, I should be beautiful!"

Looking once more from the window, Bibbs sculptured for himself—in vague contortions of the smoke and fog above the roofs—a gigantic figure with feet pedestaled upon the great buildings and shoulders disappearing in the clouds, a colossus of steel and wholly blackened with soot. But Bibbs carried his fancy further—for there was still a little poet lingering in the back of his head—and he thought that up over the clouds, unseen from below, the giant labored with his hands in the clean sunshine; and Bibbs had a glimpse of what he made there—perhaps for a fellowship of the children of the children that were children now—a noble and joyous city, unbelievably white—

* * * * * * *

It was the telephone that called him from his vision. It rang fiercely.

He lifted the thing from his desk and answered—and as the small voice inside it spoke he dropped the receiver with a crash. He trembled violently as he picked it up, but he told himself he was wrong—he had been mistaken—yet it was a startlingly beautiful voice; startlingly kind, too, and ineffably like the one he hungered most to hear.

Mary Stood Upon the Threshold.

"Who?" he said, his own voice shaking—like his hand.

"Mary."

He responded with two hushed and incredulous words: "Is it?"

There was a little thrill of pathetic half-laughter in the instrument. "Bibbs—I wanted to—just to see how you—"

"Yes—Mary?"

"I was looking when you were almost run over. I saw it, Bibbs. They said you hadn't been hurt, they thought, but I wanted to know for myself."

"No, no, I wasn't hurt at all—Mary. It was father who came nearer it. He saved me."

"Yes, I saw; but you had fallen. I couldn't get through the crowd until you had gone. And I wanted to know."

"Mary—would you—have minded?" he said. There was a long interval before she answered.

"Yes."

"Then why—"

"Yes, Bibbs?"

"I don't know what to say," he cried. "It's so wonderful to hear your voice again—I'm shaking, Mary—I—I don't know—I don't know anything except that I am talking to you! It is you—Mary?"

"Yes, Bibbs!"

"Mary—I've seen you from my window at home—only five times since I—since then. You looked—oh, how can I tell you? It was like a man chained in a cave catching a glimpse of the blue sky, Mary. Mary, won't you—let me see you again—near? I think I could make you really forgive me—you'd have to—"

"I did—then."

"No—not really—or you wouldn't have said you couldn't see me any more."

"That wasn't the reason." The voice was very low.

"Mary," he said, even more tremulously than before, "I can't—you couldn't mean it was because—you can't mean it was because you—care?"

There was no answer.

"Mary?" he called, huskily. "If you mean that—you'd let me see you—wouldn't you?"

And now the voice was so low he could not be sure it spoke at all, but if it did, the words were, "Yes, Bibbs—dear."

But the voice was not in the instrument—it was so gentle and so light, so almost nothing, it seemed to be made of air—and it came from the air.

Slowly and incredulously he turned—and glory fell upon his shining eyes. The door of his father's room had opened.

Mary stood upon the threshold.

FOR ASSEMBLY,
MITCHELL I. GARDNER

If you are for booze cut and out, vote for Scott.

Regardless of your political convictions, any voter in Centre county who is a temperance man can vote and ought to vote for Mr. Gardner.

Mr. Tobias, if elected to congress, would not be engrossed in other business to such an extent that he could not be at his post of duty when the workingman's interests are at stake. Congressman Rowland voted only on about half the bills before congress.

No man who will vote for W. E. Tobias for congress will have occasion to regret it. He was raised on the farm, taught school in various parts of Clearfield county, became superintendent of the schools of that county, all of which indicates he has the ability to serve in the office to which he aspires. Vote for him because he is just the kind of man who can be approached after he becomes a congressman in fact.

Hunting Notes.

Rabbits may be legally killed beginning next Wednesday morning.

Erdman West killed the limit of grey squirrels on Monday afternoon.

Archey W. Zettle of Pleasant Gap succeeded in killing a 10-lb. turkey on Friday.

Charles Wagner, of Potters Mills, killed a ten-pound wild turkey on Friday.

Al. Krape ran into a bunch of wild turkeys on Nittany mountain last Thursday, but failed to get a shot.

Palmer Dreese bagged five greys and two phesants on Tuesday morning, and returned home only because his ammunition ran out.

J. L. Goss of near Milroy won the enviable distinction on Friday of shooting a wild cat that he encountered in the mountain wilds near his home while tracking small game. The slain animal measured over two feet in body length. There is a bounty of $4 upon wild cats.

Temperance Workers at Tusseyville.

Five students from Pennsylvania State College will hold a temperance meeting in the Union church, at Tusseyville, Sunday evening next. These young men are holding similar meetings in all parts of Centre county, and their program is said to be both varied and highly interesting. Everybody is invited.

Wagner-Haupt.

On October 17th, at the Reformed parsonage in Boalsburg, by Rev. S. C. Stover, Ernest A. Wagner, of Oak Hall, and Miss Marie K. Haupt, of Bellefonte, were united in marriage. Akron, Ohio, will be their future home, where the groom has employment in the rubber mills.

At Garman's Opera House.

Saturday, October 28th, matinee and evening—"Maid to Order"—a theatrical attraction that has made a real hit among theater goers. A rollicking comedy with spirited music. Don't miss it. See ad. for prices.

Monday, October 30th, evening only—"The Girl Without a Chance"—a play for the mothers; full of comedy, pathos, tears and laughter. A model and fearless plea for the betterment of girls who are without parents and homes. See ad.

LOCALS.

Sunday-school convention at Farmers Mills, Friday, Nov. 10th.

William Zettle left this week for Milton where he secured employment in a shell factory.

Mrs. Christine, widow of Rev. Christine, of Elysburg, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. T. L. Moore.

Mrs. J. C. Harper and daughter, Miss Helen, of Bellefonte, spent Saturday and Sunday at the George H. Emerick home.

Mrs. Reuben Garis and little daughter, of Luxor, in the Pittsburgh district, visited relatives here and at Pleasant Gap the past week.

Mrs. Rosetta Luse and Mrs. Samuel Long, of Penns Cave, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Luse, on the Huyett farm, a few days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fair and son William, of Reading, spent from Saturday until Monday at the home of Mrs. Fair's brother, John Kreamer.

J. Frank McClellan is finding easy digging for the cellar of his new home, having come upon an old foundation of a house, apparently, at a depth of four feet.

The homes of Mrs. Mary Ross and Mrs. O. F. Funk were wired for electric light during the past week. On Wednesday work was begun on the Odd Fellows' store building.

Guy W. Jacobs witnessed the Penn-State football game at Philadelphia on Saturday which spelled defeat for his alma mater by the score of 15 to 0. He then came up to Centre Hall, spending Sunday and Monday with his mother. Tuesday afternoon he returned to New York City where he will be employed for the winter in the repair of ice manufacturing machinery.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McClenahan, of Potters Mills, motored to Union county last week, spending the time with relatives. Mr. McClenahan's big car recently underwent extensive repairs and during the time it remained at the garage Mr. McClenahan was called upon to make a number of big trips which necessarily had to be refused. However, at present he is again in shape to take care of all touring parties.

Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Spangler, of Chicago, Illinois, are visiting the former's father, W. W. Spangler, in Centre Hall. Mr. Spangler is a representative of Fisher & Company, manufactures of cigar boxes, which business is booming just at present. He views the campaign as being favorable to the election of Wilson, and gives as his opinion that in his home state many women will vote for the retention of President Wilson on the peace issue, and that the laboring class see in the president a willingness to deal square with them and consequently will to a very large extent support him.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Scholl and son of Altoona, on Tuesday, stopped at the home of the former's sister, Mrs. S. S. Kreamer, on their way to Lewistown, and while here paid his respects to the Reporter. Mr. Scholl for a long time has been connected with the Penn Central Electric company, with which concern has one of its three plants at Lewistown. The junior Mr. Scholl holds a position as chemist with the Aetna Chemical company, Pittsburgh. Speaking of the prospects of Wilson's election, Mr. Scholl thinks that if conditions about Altoona can be judged from the President is a sure winner, and in his opinion ought to be.

A drove of seven deer—six does and a buck—was the pretty sight which presented itself to Frank Phillips, of Colyer, early Monday morning while on his way into the Seven Mountains where a force of men are engaged in mowing fire roads, under Forester Montgomery. The deer were partaking of their morning meal in the orchard on the David Geary farm, which is right in the heart of the best deer hunting country on the entire range. There was only a moment's chance for admiring the beauty of the fleet-footed animals, but it nevertheless was a feast for the eyes of the early morning visitor, who thinks no such luck would be possible on the first day of December.

Just to show a New York business man what a pretty drive in Pennsylvania really meant, I. L. Harvey, connected with the Orviston brick works, at Orviston, motored to Centre Hall on Monday afternoon, bringing with him Charles E. Fowler. Mr. Fowler represents the Czarnikow-Rionda Company, who have a battery of sugar refining plants in Cuba, one of the five of which is located at Fraticsco, Cuba, having a plantation connected with it of 60,000 acres. A single plant turns out from 350,000 to 500,000 bags (330 lbs. per bag) of raw sugar per year. His mission at Orviston was to hurry a consignment of an order for a million fire brick used in the construction of the sugar refineries. Speaking of the drive to Centre Hall, Mr. Fowler declared he had never in all his travels witnessed a prettier sight than was presented to him from the top of old Nittany.

Thousands Behind

Three to fifty per hour on high—that's the speed report we get from owners all over the country.

And 20 to 25 miles per gallon of gas is the economy report.

A corking good car—

A price that makes it the greatest value on the face of the earth—

That combination has kept the factory thousands of cars behind sales for weeks and weeks.

But we're getting them in right along.

Better see us about yours today.

BOALSBURG.

Misses Nora Miller and Luella Ross visited friends at State College.

"The Camp Fire Girls" will hold a box social in Boal Hall, Saturday evening. Everybody come.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fisher and three children, of Altoona, spent several days with Mr. Fisher's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Houtz and three children, and Mary Kidder spent Saturday afternoon in Millheim.

Mrs. O. L. Mothersbaugh spent Saturday in Bellefonte, with her brother, George Keller, who is very sick in the hospital.

Mrs. Fred Weber, Mrs. Charles Kuhn and Mrs. Charles Segner, spent Thursday at the Charles Ross home near Pine Grove.

Mrs. Wm Goheen, Mrs. Alice McGoffin, Mrs. Sophia Hall, Misses Margaret Lytle and Margaretta Goheen, spent Saturday in Bellefonte. Mrs. Hall entertained these ladies at the Brockerhoff house for dinner.

JOHNSTON-WOODS NUPTIALS.

A very pretty wedding took place Tuesday, 4 p. m., at the bride's home, when Miss Rose Woods became the wife of Irvin Johnston, of Pittsburgh. The bride looked very beautiful in her white dress, with her lovely bouquet of roses. The ring ceremony was performed by the new Presbyterian pastor, Rev. L. V. Barber. Miss Woods is the youngest daughter of Mrs. (Dr.) J. F. Woods. Mr. Johnston is a grandson of Green Irvin (deceased) of Oak Hall, and son of Letitia W. Johnston, of Crafton. After the ceremony, which was witnessed by a few relatives, a splendid bridal dinner was served. The couple were taken to Bellefonte in an auto by her cousins, Matthew Goheen and wife, where they took an east bound train for an extended wedding trip, after which they will return to Crafton where they will make their home. The Boalsburg people are all sorry to part with Miss Woods; she will be missed in many ways in her home town, and every one extends to her the very best wishes for a happy wedded life.

Linden Hall

Harry Keller went to Philadelphia for the football game on Saturday and returned Sunday evening.

We are glad to note the recovery of Mrs. Frank Isbler, who was seriously ill for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. William McClintic were called to the bedside of Mrs. Nancy McClintic, on Tuesday morning, who is quite sick at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Corman, at Penn Hall.

Edward Horner will move from Mrs. Ellen Rossman's house next Tuesday to Pine Grove Mills into the house which Mrs. Miller owned. Mr. Horner is employed at the Snook stone mill at that place.

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Hall and daughter, Virginia, motored here on Saturday and returned Sunday, taking with them Miss Kemmerer from State College, who will spend a few days in Huntingdon with them.

Miss Maud Miller, accompanied by her nephew, Bernard Lemon, a midshipman on the battleship Arkansas, who is in Centre county on a fifteen day furlough, motored here Saturday and on Sunday morning left for Bloomsburg, taking with them F. E. Wieland and family, where they spent the day at the Normal with Edwina Wieland.

The Lecture Course.

The eighth season of the Centre Hall Lecture Course opened under the most favorable conditions. The first number was entirely satisfactory to every one in the house, and the remaining five numbers for the 1916-17 season are guaranteed by the Eastern Lyceum Bureau, who furnish the attractions, to be even of a better class.

The next number of the course will be the Griswold Sisters Quartette, whose program is made up of instrumental and vocal selections, sketches and readings, on Saturday evening, November 4th. The numerous press comments on the Griswold sisters invariably state that each one is an artist. This in itself is a strong recommendation. They present a delightful and varied program, each one contributing capably to make a pleasing whole.

The committee takes pleasure in announcing that more course tickets have been sold this season than for several years past, indicating that our citizens are willing to continue to patronize clean, wholesome, inspiring and educational lectures and entertainments. There are few localities similiar to this where lecture courses—courses with lectures in them—are supported longer than two or three years at a time. The continued patronage of our people is gratifying to the committee and is complimentary to the community.

There are yet five numbers in the course, and it will not require much of a mathematician to calculate that from a point of economy it will be profitable to purchase a season ticket for one dollar, which ticket carries with it a reserved seat.

Wilson Day Celebration.

Saturday, October 28th, has been set aside by the Democratic National Committee as Wilson Day. This day will be observed by people all over the United States as a day upon which they will pay their respects to the President of the United States and show their appreciation of the great public service that he has rendered his country.

On that day President Wilson is to send a message to his countrymen which is to be read in every county, city, town and hamlet in the land. This message is to be a sort of proclamation of the New Freedom, and is to be read with all the solemnity of the occasion by some prominent person appointed by the local committee.

State College Politics Controlled by 1 Boss.

Two political parties working tooth and nail to elect their candidates, and one boss dominating both factions is the unusual situation at the Pennsylvania State College. Students in the course in political science have divided into Wilson and Hughes supporters, and both organizations are combing the college community for votes. Dr. George F. Zook, associate professor of history, holds the election result in the hollow of his hand, for he is the instructor of the class. Equal suffrage has been extended to the women students for the first time, and they will exercise their ballot privilege at the mock election to be held next week.

"State" Wins in Butter-Judging Contest.

Highest honors in the butter-judging contest at the National Dairy Show have been won by students at the Pennsylvania State College. The three-man team which represented the institution returned last week from Springfield, Mass., bringing more than $300 in awards.

In addition to winning the team prize from eight of the foremost agricultural schools of the country, the State College students were rated first, second and third in the individual scores. State leads the field by more than 200 points over South Dakota, its nearest competitor.

Pleasant Gap.

Mrs. Reuben Garis, of Luxor, is paying a visit to her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Zeigler, of Bellefonte, were in town, Sunday.

Mrs. Wm Coldren spent Sunday with her daughter, Marion, at Bellefonte.

Mrs. Clyde Love, of Bellefonte, spent Sunday among friends at this place.

Mrs. Frank Weaver and daughter Freda are spending a few days among friends at Millheim.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bilger and daughter Virgie spent Sunday at the Wilson Bilger home at Bellefonte.

Miss Marion Gettig is paying a visit to the Thomas Adam's home, at Niagara.

If we only had about six more officers in P. G. the game laws would be half respected.

William Rimmey and family of Jersey Shore, spent Sunday among friends at this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Keller of Centre Hall spent Sunday in Pleasant Gap.

Dr. Barlett, of this place, and Dr. Longwell, of Centre Hall, performed a minor operation on Miss Edna Wolfe, Monday.

John Herman and William Keene left last week for Niagara at which place they expect to obtain employment.

The service held by Rev. Sarvis, of Bellewood, was largely attended on Sunday, it being twenty-five years since Dr. Sarvis delivered his last sermon here as our local minister.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Lee attended the funeral of Mrs. Lee's grandmother, at Shenadoah, on Saturday.

Mr. G. C. Decker and family, accompanied by Mrs. C. E. Fickle, Mrs. Robert Kennelly, and Mrs. R. G. Kennelly spent Sunday at Yeagertown.

The Commonweal club, Y. W. C. A. girls, had a social at the Ethel Hettinger home on Saturday afternoon. After the social and business meeting, refreshments consisting of sandwiches, ice cream, coffee and candy were served. All present had a delightful time.

PENN HALL

Florence Bartges spent Sunday with her friend, Irma Shook.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shook spent Sunday afternoon at the home of Samuel Ulrich.

Mrs. Ephriam Shook and granddaughter Miriam spent Sunday at the home of Georg Shook.

Clarence Musser, who is teaching school at Colyer, visited his parents over Sunday.

George Shook purchased a 1916 model Pullman touring car from A. R. Lee.

George Hoy from above State College visited at the home of John Albright, over Sunday.

Harry Ulrich and family, from Spring Mills, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Musser.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hennigh visited Mrs. Hennigh's brother, Arch Decker, at Mifflinburg, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gramley, from Spring Mills, spent Sunday at home of William Sinkabine, and helped to eat the 20-lb.-wild turkey Mr. Sinkabine shot last week.

Potters Mills

Charles Wagner killed a large wild turkey last Friday.

Mrs. Alice Bible entertained on Sunday Frank Bible and family of Centre Hill.

F. A. Carson, J. Frank McCoy and Edward Allison spent Tuesday in Bellefonte.

A crew of Bell telephone workmen boarded several days at the Eutaw house.

J. Frank McCoy, of Philadelphia, is home. His main object was the sale; he expects to return sometime this week.

Mrs. John Wilkinson spent Tuesday in Bellefonte the guest of her son, Harry, and to see her grandson, number two.

To Dedicate New Lodge Home.

The State College lodge, I. O. O. F., has set November 23 and 24 as the days for the dedication exercises of their new hall. Reports from all committees point to a very successful event. The program has not yet been completed but will soon be ready. Arrangements have been made with Dr. Sparks to have all college buildings open to visitors.

From present indications there will be a large turnout of Odd Fellows and the parade will be one of the best and biggest ever held in the central part of the State.

The success of all this depends on the railroads. The committee is trying to get specials from Tyrone, Lewisburg and Lock Haven, announcement of which will be made later.

The short time between now and election day will seem an age to the average politician.

UNITED STATES TROOPS IN BATTLE

Cavalry Patrol in Clash Near Big Bend.

FIGHT LASTS NEARLY HOUR

Report Is Made To General Funston Telling Of the Engagement—No Losses Reported By the American Forces.

San Antonio, Texas. — American troops and Mexicans clashed near San Jose, in the Big Bend county, according to a report received by General Funston from Col. Joseph Gaston, commander of the district. The fight lasted for 45 minutes. No losses were suffered by the Americans, and information is lacking regarding loss among the Mexicans.

Colonel Gaston's report said that a band of about 30 Mexicans opened fire on a detachment composed of 23 men of the Sixth Cavalry and Texas National Guard cavalry squadron engaged in patrol duty between Presidio and Ruidosa. Lieutenant Cudington, of the Texas squadron, commanding the troops, ordered his men to return the fire.

A vigorous exchange of shots continued for a period of 45 minutes, the Americans and Mexicans firing in skirmish formation from covered positions on either side of the Rio Grande. Information from Colonel Gaston did not indicate that the United States troops crossed in pursuit of the Mexicans. After the fight Lieutenant Cudington returned to Ruidosa with his command.

Colonel Gaston reported that Major A. V. P. Anderson, of the Sixth Cavalry, has gone to San Jose to investigate the incident. Colonel Raejos, commander of the Carranza garrison at Ojinaga, has gone to the scene of the fight for the same purpose, according to Colonel Gaston.

Washington.—General Funston, reporting on the exchange of shots across the border at San Jose, said that late reports reaching him indicated the American troops were fired upon "by drunken Mexicans."

The dispatch made no mention of firing by the American troopers and said there were no casualties on either side. Officials here were inclined to attach little significance to the incident, believing that an irresponsible band had blundered upon the detachment of Americans and withdrawn after firing a few desultory shots. There was nothing in General Funston's dispatch, it was said, to indicate a prolonged engagement.

CRANK WHO CHASED WILSON.

Declares He Just Wanted To Talk To the President.

Pittsburgh, Pa. — Richard Cullen, aged 22, a machinist, who was taken into custody after attempting to jump on the running board of an automobile in which President Wilson was riding here, was examined by physicians and ordered sent to the City Home at Mayview for further observation regarding his sanity. Cullen denied that he intended harming the President, saying he was not satisfied with the administration's foreign policies and just wanted to talk to him.

On the ride the President lost his hat, and the automobile was stopped while a secret service man recovered it. Cullen, with a bag of tools, jumped on the running board of the automobile, but was knocked off by a secret service man. The man chased the President's conveyance for a block before he was arrested by local detectives.

TAX DODGERS MADE TO PAY.

Internal Revenue Bureau Recovers $22,500,576 Due U. S.

Washington. — How the Internal Revenue Bureau has more than paid all of its expenses during the last three years by collecting back taxes that had been fraudulently evaded was detailed in a statement issued at the Treasury Department. The fraudulent returns uncovered aggregated more than $50,000,000, much of which had been due for years. A total of $22,500,576 was recovered. The statement points out that this amount is greater by $2,700,000 than the entire cost of collecting the country's $1,308,000,000 of internal revenue during the three years. About half of the total recovered came from corporations which had evaded the corporation excise tax, the amount from that source being $11,326,000. Other items collected included $5,000,000 in evaded income taxes, $950,000 in evaded oleomargarine revenues and $984,000 in compromises of minor evasions.

CAPITAL FACES MILK FAMINE.

Maryland and Virginia Farmers Cut Off Washington's Supply.

Washington.—With Maryland and Virginia farmers getting rid of their milch cows, Washington is confronted with an actual milk shortage.

The producers and city retailers in milk are at loggerheads over the price of milk, the producers claiming they cannot get a living price for milk. The city retailers refuse to allow an increase in price.

GERMANS BELIEVE THE BREMEN LOST

Diplomats Do Not Think She Was Captured.

MAY HAVE SUNK IN DIVING

If the Submarine Had Been Captured the British Would Have Probably Made Public Important Documents.

Washington.—Loss of the German submarine merchantman Bremen is conceded by ranking Teutonic diplomats in position to be familiar with the movements of the vessel. The Bremen is now one month overdue.

It was admitted that German officials, not only in this country, but in Berlin, were without information as to the fate of the Bremen. All they know is that she set out for America from Bremerhaven and that she should have arrived at an American port soon after the middle of last month. It is regarded as doubtful that accurate information concerning the fate of the vessel will be available until after the close of the war, if then.

The disappearance of the Bremen will not cause abandonment of the project to send merchant submarines regularly from Germany to the United States, it was said. There appeared to be reason to expect that another subsea freighter, either the Deutschland or some other, would reach an American port some time within the next month.

German officials in Washington do not believe the Bremen could have fallen into the hands of the British unless she had some accident to her machinery. They pointed out that, unlike naval submarines, merchant submarines avoid all localities frequented by shipping, and, therefore, are not open to the same risks.

When the Bremen was a week overdue no anxiety regarding her was felt. The Deutschland was just a week overdue when she came through the Virginia Capes, and the weather conditions then were much better than those which have prevailed during the last month and a half. When the vessel was two weeks overdue anxiety was apparent in various Teutonic quarters, and word of her arrival was anxiously awaited.

Since then hope that the submarine might be safe has dwindled each day and today she was spoken of as having been lost.

Reports that the Bremen had arrived safely in New London, Conn., were published in newspapers in Germany more than two weeks ago. It was at New London that a dock had been especially arranged for the reception of the craft.

The Bremen was commanded by Captain Schwarzkopf and carried a crew of approximately twenty-five men.

One official said it was likely that the Bremen had met the fate of a number of naval submarines which had sailed from port never to be heard from again. These vessels have disappeared completely and none of the members of their crews has been reported as being in the detention camps of the Entente Allies. It is presumed that they had some accident which caused them to sink or had a mishap while diving, which prevented them from coming to the surface.

Another argument advanced in support of the belief that the Bremen had met with an accident rather than capture was that she had aboard a number of important documents for the German Embassy here, which probably would have been made public had they fallen into the hands of the British.

LIEUTENANT THAW ALIVE.

American Aviator Reported Dead Turns Up At Paris.

Paris.—At the Paris home of Lieut. William Thaw, of the Franco-American Aviator Corps, it was said that the Lieutenant was alive and well. He arrived from the front to attend the funeral of Sergt. Norman Prince, of the Franco-American Corps.

GREEKS PATHETIC PLEA TO AMERICA

Beg Uncle Sam's Protection Against the Entente.

BIG CROWD AT LEGATION

U. S. Minister Was At a Clubhouse Across the Way Watching As They Tried To Get Into the Legation.

Athens.—After the demonstration here against the Entente Allies, during which a procession of several thousand persons marched to the American legation and protested against the landing of French marines, a delegation of six persons called at the American legation and presented resolutions asking the sympathy and protection of the United States against the encroachments of the Entente powers. The spokesman said in English in presenting the resolution:

"Henry Clay's speech in regard to Greece's struggle for liberty, as well as one by Daniel Webster, said the struggle would have been made meaningless if the liberties of Greece had been subsequently lost."

The American minister, Garrett Droppers, promised to forward the petition to Washington.

There were about 5,000 persons in the crowd which marched to the American legation, carrying huge American and Greek flags. Recent reports published in Greek newspapers that an American fleet of 30 warships was on the way to Greece inspired the crowd to insist on seeing Mr. Droppers, although the legation remained dark, the door was closed and no one answered the bell. For several hours the fruitless attempt to gain a hearing at the legation was continued, with repeated cheers for the United States.

Unknown to the crowd the American minister and the legation secretary were watching the demonstration from windows of the American Club, directly opposite.

When it was seen at last that no response could be had at the time from the legation, a committee, including an English-speaking Greek, named Kilkis, formerly from Mississippi, was formed to wait upon Mr. Droppers and beg him to put the case of Greece before the American people.

After the demonstration before the American legation the crowd, constantly increasing in numbers, marched to the hotel and renewed the demonstration, waving the American flag and calling on the representative of the news agency to inform the world through the press as to what was going on in Greece.

The Royalist newspaper Newhemera declared that the impartial American press was the only bar before which Greece could obtain justice and sympathy.

Mr. Droppers said that he would forward to Washington the petition for protection of Greece from the pressure of the Entente. He expressed the opinion that the demonstration and appeal to America were due to the reports of the coming of an American fleet.

AND STILL COAL GOES UP.

Prices In West Virginia Highest In Years.

Charleston, W. Va.—The price of coal for domestic purposes will be higher in West Virginia this winter than for years, according to dealers. Nut coal now sells for nine and one-half cents a bushel, while slack or fuel coal formerly selling at three and one-half cents now costs five and one-half.

TWO SHIPS ADDED TO WAR TOLL.

British and Norwegian Steamers Reported Sunk.

London. — The British steamship Welsh Prince, 4,934 tons gross, and owned in Newcastle, has been sunk. Lloyd's announces that the Norwegian steamer Kong Alf is reported to have been sunk on Saturday. The steamer, of 301 gross tons, was owned in Christiania.

NEW OFFENSIVE IN CARPATHIANS

Purpose to Relieve Defense of Lemburg.

LARGE FORCES BEING USED

Berlin and Vienna Claim To Have Driven the Russians Across the Valley Of the Neagre.

London.—With the defeated Roumanian armies struggling desperately along their own frontier line in the Transylvanian Alps to stem the inrush of Germans and Austro-Hungarians into their country, the Central Powers have launched a new offensive far to the northeast designed to lighten the pressure of the Russian armies along their Eastern front.

The first blow of the offensive has been struck south of Dorna Watra, in the Eastern Carpathians not far from the triangular point where Roumania, Bukomina and Transylvania join.

Official announcements from Petrograd state that the Austro-Germans are employing "great forces" in the movement which aims, apparently, at outflanking the Russians and thereby lightening the immense pressure they are bringing to bear against the various German and Austro-Hungarian army groups defending Lemberg.

The first honors of the battle are with the Teutons. An official statement issued in Berlin, and supported by a similar declaration from Vienna announces that the Russians have been driven back across the Valley of the Neagre River.

MARINES STAND HARD TEST.

Ascend Eight-Mile Mountain Path In Haiti In Two Hours.

San Domingo City. — Lieutenant Kingston, of the United States marines in Haiti, to determine the staying powers of his 118 men, ranging in age from 19 to 52 and carrying the regulation field equipment, gave a test of ascending a steep mountain path, approximately eight miles, within two hours.

Eighty-four men accomplished the feat, and of those 20 per cent. were veterans of 44 years and over.

GERMANS DEPORT BELGIANS.

Arrest 300 Who Refuse To Make Munitions; Kill 12.

London. — The Amsterdam correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company wires the following: "Three hundred workmen in a Ghent factory who refused to work in German munition factories in Belgium have been arrested and sent to Germany. Twelve who resisted were shot. The Germans everywhere are forcing the Belgians to work for them, particularly on the railroads, their own personnel having given out."

15 LOST IN MINE DISASTER.

Six Known To Be Entombed and Nine Missing Near Fairmont.

Fairmont, W. Va.—Six men are known to have been entombed and nine others are missing as a result of an explosion of coal dust in mine No. 7 of the Jamison Coal and Coke Company at Barracksville, near here. The interior of the mine, as well as the tipple and other buildings, were wrecked by the blast.

CAVALRY AFTER VILLA.

Twelve Machine Guns Are Also Sent With Carranza Troops.

Chihuahua, Mexico.—General Carlos Ozuna left here with a column of 2,000 cavalry, twelve machine guns and a sanitary corps, all well supplied to take the field against Villa. Villa is reported to be in San Andres while his bands are visiting the neighboring ranches to obtain loot and impress the ranchers in the Villa commands.

CHILDREN PUT TO WORK.

France Using Them To Supply Labor Shortage On Farms.

Washington.—French school children while on their vacations are being put to work on farms to make up the labor shortage due to the war, according to official reports to Washington. An arrangement for the employment of practically all the school children of the nation has been perfected.

Centralis, Okla. — Four bandits entered this city in an automobile, held up the cashier of the First National Bank and escaped with between $5,000 and $8,000.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS OF VALUE

Small Things in Themselves, but They Will Be Found Well Worthy of Consideration.

To make house ferns grow rapidly, place four or five pieces of charcoal on top of the soil. Keep the flower pot in a jardiniere, with plenty of water, and its rapid movement will be astonishing.

Try rubbing your stove well with vinegar before applying the blacking and you will be surprised at how much brighter your polish will be and how much longer it will last than if the blacking were applied to the uncleaned iron.

To clean the white kid shoes now so much in vogue make a paste of cornstarch and gasoline, keeping the mixture away from the fire, preferably out of doors. Rub the shoes thoroughly and leave in the sun to dry, when all superfluous powder may be rubbed off with a dry cloth. This preparation is also excellent for cleaning white felt.

The raveled threads from old linen will be found best for darning tablecloths or napkins.

Save all tea leaves for about a week and place them in a pail, over which may be poured boiling water. Allow them to stand for one hour; then strain and bottle the liquid. This, when applied with flannel to mirrors, windows and picture glasses, makes them shine like crystal.

FOR PART OF DINNER MENU

Dish That Experts Have Recommended as a Welcome Addition to the Table.

Little Chicken Aspics.—Line some plain individual molds with cool aspic jelly, decorate this with cooked peas and put them into a cool place until they are required. Put a quarter of a pint of thick mayonnaise sauce into a basin and mix it with a quarter of a pint of whipped cream. Then add by degrees a quarter of a pint of cool aspic jelly (which is still liquid). Have in readiness some of the white meat of a cooked fowl cut into small dice-shaped pieces, mask them quickly with the mayonnaise cream and fill the individual molds. Turn out the little individual aspics as soon as the mixture is quite firm, arrange them close together around a small platter which has been covered with chopped aspic and fill the middle of the dish with a salad composed of young peas (cooked) and lettuce.

Bran and Graham Biscuit.

One cupful sterilized bran, two cupfuls graham flour, one cupful milk, one egg, two teaspoonfuls sugar, one teaspoonful salt, two teaspoonfuls butter, four teaspoonfuls baking powder.

Mix the dry ingredients together, beat the egg slightly and add to the milk. Stir the liquids into the dry ingredients the same as for cream biscuits. Turn upon a slightly floured molding board and roll to one-half inch in thickness. Cut into shape with the biscuit cutter and bake in a hot oven.

Lastly, here is a very nourishing nut and raisin bread that is particularly good for the children's school luncheon, but it is well to chop the raisins so as to make them more easily digested.

French Pickles.

One colander of sliced green tomatoes, one quart sliced onions, one colander of cucumbers, pared and sliced; two good handfuls of salt. Let all stand 24 hours, then drain through a sieve; one-half ounce celery seed, one-half ounce allspice, one teacupful of white mustard seed, one teacupful of black pepper. Use a little less pepper, if you don't like yours too hot. Use one-half cupful pepper, one tablespoonful tumeric, one pound of brown sugar, two tablespoonfuls of mustard, one gallon of vinegar.

Stuffed Cucumbers.

Make a force meat of one cupful of veal or lamb, and half a cupful of bread crumbs; season with butter, salt and cayenne. Scoop out centers of six large-sized cucumbers, cut in halves. Take a slice off the bottom so that they will stand upright. Arrange them in a deep pan, pour in a cupful of stock, let simmer in this, in oven until tender; take them out, arrange on a hot dish; thicken the gravy with brown flour; let it boil up once and serve round cucumbers.

Air Pudding.

Beat the whites of two eggs very stiff. Put through a sieve two cupfuls of sweetened apple sauce, turn the sauce into the dish with the beaten whites of eggs, add a little lemon flavoring and beat all together. Put it in a dish that you will serve it from and set away to chill. Some say it tastes like sherbet (lemon).

Graham Gems.

Try these and you will find they are "gems": One large cupful sifted graham flour, one cupful white flour, one-fourth cupful molasses, one beaten egg, one cupful sour milk, one teaspoonful soda dissolved in the milk and pinch salt. Bake in gem pans in hot oven.

When Cooking Cranberries.

A quarter of an apple cooked with each quart of cranberries lessens the crudeness of their flavor but does not diminish their tartness.

To Brighten Carpets.

Wipe them with warm water to which has been added a few drops of ammonia.

WIFE TOO ILL TO WORK

IN BED MOST OF TIME

Her Health Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Indianapolis, Indiana. — "My health was so poor and my constitution so run down that I could not work. I was thin, pale and weak, weighed but 109 pounds and was in bed most of the time. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and five months later I weighed 133 pounds. I do all the housework and washing for eleven and I can truthfully say Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been a godsend to me for I would have been in my grave today but for it. I would tell all women suffering as I was to try your valuable remedy."—Mrs. Wm. Green, 332 S. Addison Street, Indianapolis, Indiana.

There is hardly a neighborhood in this country, wherein some woman has not found health by using this good old-fashioned root and herb remedy.

If there is anything about which you would like special advice, write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Want Hens in English Parks.

In the hope of saving a large part of the $40,000,000 spent every year for foreign eggs, an agitation is on foot to throw open London parks for poultry breeding. The scheme is receiving serious consideration from the authorities because it is one of the latest war-time economies suggested on a large scale. The promoters of the idea have asked for part of one park to start with. The plan provides for a site of about three acres and accommodation for 600 hens. The leading poultry breeders of the country will be invited to send six selected fowls of the same breed and strain. Scientific feeding tests are to be made. All the eggs will go to the wounded soldiers, and prizes will be awarded to the owners of the hens laying the most eggs.

Is Work Too Hard?

Many kinds of work wear out the kidneys, and kidney trouble makes any kind of work hard. It brings morning lameness, backache, headache, nervousness, rheumatism and urinary troubles. If your work is confining, strains the back, or exposes you to extreme heat or cold or damp, it's well to keep the kidneys active. Doan's Kidney Pills are reliable and safe. Thousands recommend them.

A Virginia Case

C. L. Cook, 32 Oak St., Covington, Va., says: "A bad case of diphtheria left my kidneys very weak. The first symptom was backache that kept growing worse and then the kidney secretions began to pass too frequently and were painful. My limbs swelled nearly twice their normal size and though doctors treated me, I kept getting worse until I gave up hope of recovery. Finally, I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they cured me. During the past seven years, I have had no further trouble."

Cardui Wins Suit.

After a trial in the United States District Court of Chicago, before Judge Carpenter and a federal jury, the jury found the American Medical Association guilty of libeling Cardui, the woman's tonic, which they had denounced as a "nostrum."

This is a vindication of the medicine and a proof that it has merit, which was recognized by a jury after a trial of three months, one of the longest civil cases on record.

Many doctors and chemists testified on both sides and the evidence totaled nearly four million words.

WORSE THAN THE SLIPPER

Punishment Meted Out to Indian Boys Certainly of the Most Strenuous Nature.

My grandmother had 12 children, and one uncle undertook to teach me the art of worship. He used to lead me to the sand banks of the Missouri river, where he would set fire to a pile of driftwood, and then, taking me by the hand, sing sacred songs to the fire and river. In the meantime he threw into them offerings of tobacco, red feathers, and sometimes oak twigs. I never knew the meaning of these offerings, but I always felt that some living thing actuated both the fire and the river. Another uncle came to visit us periodically, and every time he came my brother or I suffered at his hands. Sometimes he would rush to the spring, carrying me horizontally under his arm, and would plunge my head into the water until I almost suffocated. His common form of discipline was to let me hang by my hands on the crosspoles of the wigwam until my arms ached. My body writhed before I dropped. This uncle seemed to like best to command my older brother to tie my hands and feet with a rope. Then he would order me to resist—an ordeal that would make us both cry. In the winter he would also sometimes roll us in snow naked. The punishment of Indian children is usually in the hands of some uncle rather than the parents. Our punishments were inflicted generally because we had disobeyed grandmother by failing to get wood at evening, had resisted fasting, had fought some Indian boys, or had cried without sufficient cause.—Southern Workman.

STATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

The Latest Gleanings From All Over the State.

TOLD IN SHORT PARAGRAPHS

Playing the role of peacemaker may prove fatal to Miss Lillian Marshall, of New York City. She was found with a fractured skull near St. Luke's Hospital, South Bethlehem. From what can be learned, the woman was out walking with a man when another man came along and began a fight. In trying to settle the dispute, the woman was hart.

Mrs. Helen Gardner Lewis, aged sixty-four years, wife of Colonel S. C. Lewis, who was on Governor Hasting's staff, committed suicide at her home in Franklin by shooting herself through the head. Despondency is assigned as the cause. She had been broken mentally for several months, but her condition had not alarmed her relatives.

The entire flock of wild turkeys which Dr. Kalbfus planted on the Hickory Run preserve was shot by gunners. In an effort to save them the game warden on Sunday rounded them up in a corral, but the birds broke through during the night, only to meet their fate the very first day of the open season.

Going into his chicken pen Frank Cunard, of Frackville, found twenty-five valuable fowls dead. Upon examination he found that the chickens had been fed on mine dynamite caps, which, coming under the gizzard-grinding process, exploded, causing death. An enemy is charged with distributing the caps.

Miss Annie Heckman, about forty years old, librarian of the public library at Wernersville, was killed by an express train on the Reading Railroad west of that borough. In attempting to cross the tracks, the woman awaited the passing of a local train and stepped in the way of an express.

To increase sentiment for a community high school for the suburbs of Harrisburg on the west shore of the Susquehanna River, mass meetings are being planned to reach the voters in Lemoyne, Camp Hill, East Pennsboro Township, Wormleysburg and West Fairfield.

Alvin Sipple confessed to County Detective Mallery that a shot from his gun as he fired at a bird killed Charles Polk, the Freeland hunter who at first was thought to have been wounded fatally by the discharge of his own weapon while he was crawling over a fence.

The plant of the Glen Rock Ice and Cold Storage Company and an adjoining three-story frame structure, occupied by the Industrial Sewing Company, which employs 100 women, were destroyed by fire, entailing a loss of $25,000.

The Attorney General has allowed the use of the name of the State in quo warranto proceedings against certain Councilmen of Tamaqua, who are alleged to be interested in borough contracts. The suit will be brought in Schuylkill county.

Amos Stoltzfus, a farmer of Intercourse, returning home from the Coatesville Market was instantly killed on the Lincoln Highway near Coatesville. His machine turned completely over and he was caught beneath the car.

The West Shore Firemen's Union, at a meeting, outlined plans to secure a reduction in water rates for the West Shore towns opposite Harrisburg, to get uniform water pressure, and to make an investigation into alleged impure water.

A score of neighbors gathering at the farm of John Wiser, of Tulpehocken who is ill, and cut five acres of his corn by moonlight. They informed him that they would be back later on to husk it and place it in his corn cribs.

The eighty-seventh annual grand encampment of Odd Fellows adjourned at Chambersburg, after a pleasant session. Oil City was chosen for next year's session, all other competing places withdrawing.

On account of the scarcity of labor for the quarries and iron mills of Lancaster county, many firms are importing Mexicans, already twenty-five have arrived.

Middletown Council authorized engineers to submit plans and estimates for building a driveway under the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad at Catherine street.

Students of the central, technical and grammar schools of Harrisburg are planning to hold a big street parade to boost for the proposed $1,250,000 high school loan.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad Company paid the State $199,989.10 as State tax on loans.

TREES TO LINE STATE HIGHWAYS

Forestry Department Completes Arrangements For Planting Saplings.

Harrisburg—Representatives of the State Highway and Forestry Departments have completed arrangements for planting of thousands of trees along the State highways in Pennsylvania and the first will likely be set out next autumn. Fruit, nut and shade trees will be planted as has been done in other States.

The Department of Forestry will grow the trees in its nurseries and they will be transplanted into areas set aside for the purpose. As the Department has only shade trees and those which bear small fruit for birds available for transplanting at present, these varieties will be the first to be set out.

The species already transplanted for use along the roads are white, pitch and Scotch pines, sugar maple, Douglas fir, Norway spruce, black cherry, white elm, white ash, honey locust and European larch. About 23,000 trees have been transplanted in plots on State forestry reservations in Pike, Tioga, Clearfield, Franklin and Huntington counties, which number it is estimated, will care for 100 miles of highway if planted fifty feet apart. The growing of fruit and nut trees will be taken up immediately.

According to what has been learned from the Highway Department of Missouri, fruit and nut trees along its State highways are now bearing and but little fruit is stolen.

Officer's Widow Loses Appeal.

The State Compensation Board in an opinion just made public has upheld Referee Jacob Snyder, of Altoona, in refusing to award compensation to the widow and child of Charles R. Shipe, constable of the Borough of Juniata, shot and killed while endeavoring to serve a warrant. The referee held that the constable was not an employe within the meaning of the Act and the board holds that the Legislature in enacting the law had in mind the term "workman" in the popular sense of the word and the fact that an elective officer is paid by fees which are a charge against the county does not constitute him an employe.

"It is impossible that the term 'employe' could, as used in our law, include the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, a county, municipality or other government agency, when in the administration of the law, it calls upon an officer elected by the people and invested by law with power to perform those duties," says the opinion. "We can find nothing in the law to justify an award of compensation under the facts in this case."

Compensation Limited In Scope.

The State Workmen's Compensation Board has no authority to read into the Compensation Act "what may be urged as equitable provisions," declares Commissioner John A. Scott in an opinion rendered in refusing to graduate compensation in the case of Dominick Spadea, Johnstown against John Goll & Co., Johnstown. Spadea caught the thumb of his left hand in a cogwheel and the thumb had to be amputated. It is held that, although the injury is permanent, it is not of such character as to form complete disability.

"Disability in this case," says Mr. Scott, "if total, must be compensated as such while disability lasts." He remarks that in many jurisdictions the list of disabilities of a partial character resulting from permanent injuries is much more extended than in the Pennsylvania Act and that "decisions from other States are not helpful in this respect as they are founded on radically different enactments."

Capitol Appointments.

Colonel Hamilton D. Turner, commander of the Second Infantry, was appointed a colonel of field artillery and assigned to command the Second Artillery, into which the Second Infantry has been converted. Captain Jacob Geissel and First Lieutenant Joseph Moorhead, Second Infantry, have been appointed to those grades in the Second Artillery.

General J. Lewin Good, Philadelphia, was reappointed a member of the State Board of Undertakers' Examiners and Clyde L. Patterson appointed Justice of the Peace for Wilson borough.

Flood Conference Called By Governor.

Governor Brumbaugh has called a conference of State, county and city officials and of men interested in prevention of floods, to be held in the State Capitol on October 31 for general discussion of ways and means to control the flood waters of Pennsylvania. The conference will be the first of the kind held in the State.

Pardon Plea Fails.

Only five pardons were recommended by the State Board of Pardons at the conclusion of the October hearing, the board declining to ask that clemency be extended to Henry Ward Mottern, aged seventeen, Jefferson county, condemned to be electrocuted for murder, although Judges had joined in the petition.

May Develop Irish Coal Mines.

The idea that Ireland will never become a mining country of any account is not the view of the Newry Urban council, which at their last meeting considered the proposals made by the Irish Association of Gas Managers at Dublin, in view of the present condition of the Irish coal supply. If not relieved, the gas managers said, the smaller gas works must be shut down and the government should be urged to provide an adequate supply of coal at reasonable rates. The Newry council approved this opinion and passed a special resolution to be presented to the British executive stating that the time was opportune for the development of the large and valuable coal mensures which undoubtedly exist in Ireland.

Oldtime Musical Watch.

An extraordinary timepiece has come into the possession of a jeweler living in Chillicothe, O., who is said to have got it on a recent visit to London. It is a watch of the antique class, made in Paris 125 years ago at a time when musical watches were much in vogue among the well-to-do classes. It is a fine specimen of the handmade article, and besides playing beautiful melodies strikes the hours and quarters. The dial is noteworthy on account of its rare and exquisite enamel work on beautifully chased gold. It is looked upon as a curio of great value.

Their Privilege.

"Look here!" carped a muddy motorist, halting his muddy car in front of where Mr. Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge was situated, draped over his own fence. "Are those infernal young savages, just around the corner there, your children?"

"I reckon," was the nonchalant reply. "What have they been doing?"

"Doing! Why, ten or a dozen of them were playing in a mudhole, and when I came along the whole squad lined up and threw mud at me as fast as they could sling it. Look at me! Look at my car—"

"Aw, well, what can I do about it? This is presidential year, and they've got a right to sling all the mud they—yaw-w-w-wn!—want to."—Kansas City Star.

English Learning Other Langauges.

The English have never been distinguished in the past as linguists, their own mother tongue answering their requirements, commercially, intellectually and otherwise. Their insularity in this respect is disappearing, however, and two anonymous donors have each given $5,000 to Leeds university, one gift being for the development of the Russian language and literature, and the other as an initial endowment to found a chair of Spanish.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND DON'T KNOW IT

Weak and unhealthy kidneys cause so much sickness and suffering and when through neglect or other causes, kidney trouble is permitted to continue serious results may be expected.

Your other organs may need attention—but your kidneys should have attention first because their work is most important.

If you feel that your kidneys are the cause of your sickness or run down condition commence taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because if it proves to be the remedy you need and your kidneys begin to improve they will help all the other organs to health.

Prevalency of Kidney Disease.

Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalency of kidney disease. While kidney disorders are among the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patients, who usually content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease constantly undermines the system.

A Trial Will Convince Anyone.

Thousands of people have testified that the mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, is soon realized and that it stands the highest for its remarkable results in the most distressing cases.

Symptoms of Kidney Trouble.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you suffer from annoying bladder troubles, frequently passing water night and day, smarting or irritation in passing, brick-dust or sediment, headache, backache, lame back, dizziness, poor digestion, sleeplessness, nervousness, heart disturbance due to bad kidney trouble, skin eruptions from bad blood, neuralgia, rheumatism, lumbago, bloating, irritability, worn-out feeling, lack of ambition, may be loss of flesh or sallow complexion, kidney trouble in its worst form may be stealing upon you.

Swamp-Root Is Pleasant to Take.

If you are already convinced that Swamp-Root is what you need, you can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at all drug stores.

SPECIAL NOTE—You may obtain a sample size bottle of Swamp-Root by enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. This gives you the opportunity to prove the remarkable merit of this medicine. They will also send you a book of valuable information, containing many of the thousands of grateful letters received from men and women who say they found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed in kidney, liver and bladder troubles. The value and success of Swamp-Root are so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample size bottle. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure and mention this paper.

Pigs and Kerosene

Agricultural colleges experiment to ascertain the best feeding methods for pigs. By scientific study they determine what will practically assure success and profits.

What has this to do with kerosene? Just this: scientific research by experts has produced a kerosene for you to feed your lamps and oil stoves—a kerosene so highly refined, so pure in form, that it is called to distinguish it from ordinary kinds. It will not smell, smoke or char the wicks. You can have a brilliant yet soothing light and a steady, room-filling heat without fussing with burners, trimming wicks and turning the flame up and down. When used in lanterns it gives a clear, far-reaching light. And it costs not a penny more than ordinary kinds. Always ask for it by name.

ATLANTIC
OIL

For perfect results use Atlantic Rayolight Oil in Raye Lamps. Many beautiful designs moderately priced—$1.90 up. Ask your dealer.

Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater

No chopping kindling, no shoveling coal, no tinkering with draughts. Just strike a match and your Perfection Oil Heater will keep you warm and comfortable, no matter how hard the wind blows. You won't have any smoke, soot, ashes, or the slightest odor. Any dealer will be glad to show you Perfection Oil Heaters, priced

$3.50 to $5.00
